Crocodile Tears can be pre-ordered now and will be out in the wild on January 21, 2025!

Dove Lachlan is a self-proclaimed bird nerd and DnD enthusiast who's finally found her place among her wacky clan of zookeepers. She's become the driving force behind the zoo's fundraising and events, pouring her heart into making Prickle Island Zoo a sanctuary for animals and a delight for visitors. But being immersed in her work, Dove has decided to put romance on a permanent hiatus . . .

That is, until movie star, Deacon Harrow, starts filming his latest blockbuster at her family's zoo.

Dove isn't thrilled that her former childhood best friend--turned enemy--turned movie star has weaseled his way back into her life. After his most recent conservation blunder, she can't even bear to be in the same room as him. Fame has changed him—or has it?

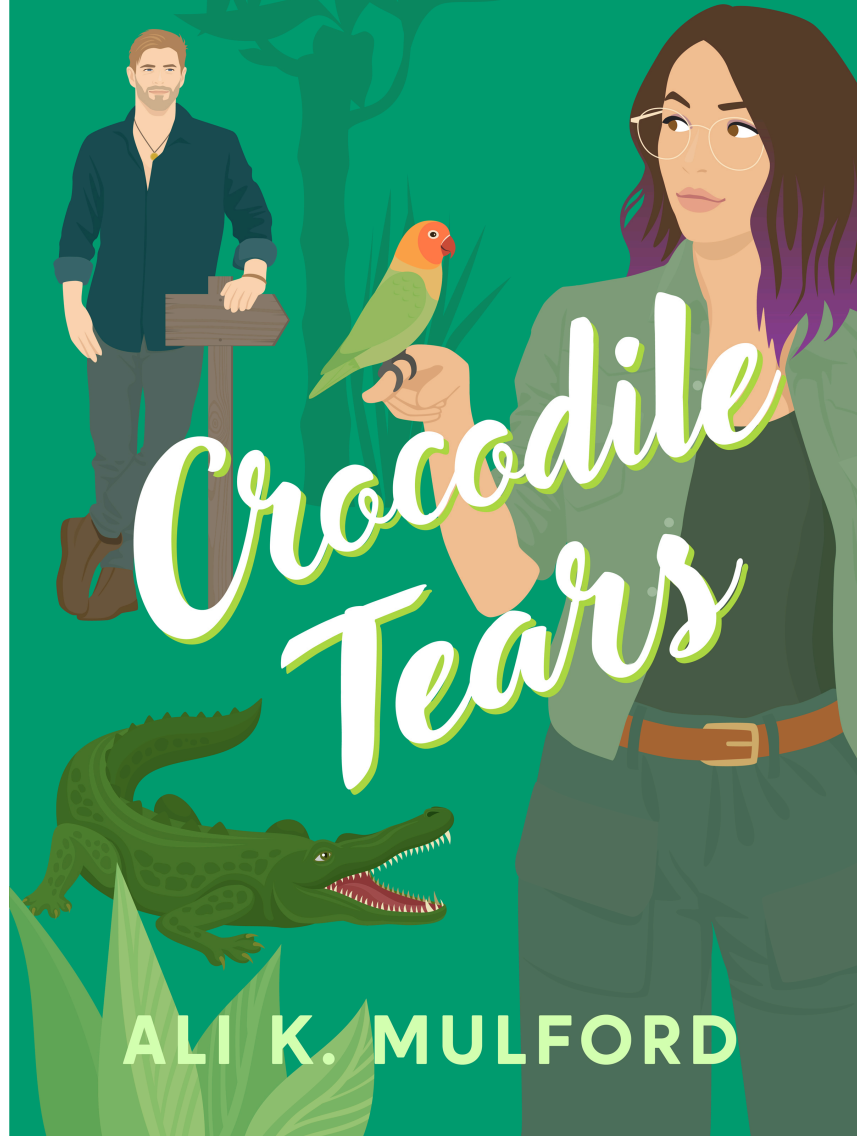

When Deacon launches a new conservation campaign to repair his public image, he ropes Dove into helping him in the hopes of getting closer to her. He knows the kindhearted Dove won't be able to refuse and tries to use their newfound proximity to set things right. But Deacon fears that maybe this time, he's messed up his relationship with Dove beyond repair.

Amidst the clamor of wild animals and film crews, old sparks fly and forgotten feelings resurface. Can Dove and Deacon rekindle their friendship—and perhaps discover something more? Get ready for a wild ride filled with love, laughter, and a few crocodile tears.
